

PUBLIC LEDGER

FOURTH YEAR.

MAYSVILLE, KY., SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1895.

ONE CENT.

LARGEST IN THE CITY.

Purely Business!

The columns of a newspaper represent a cash value. No publisher can afford to give advertising "notices" free any more than a merchant can give his customer free suits of dry goods or shoes. A newspaper is a legitimate business concern. Its columns are its stock in trade and advertisements should be paid for, no matter in what part of the paper they appear.

The Continued Calls

Upon THE LEDGER for free notices have become so burdensome that we are forced to publish the following terms:

For Notices of Nuptials,

Marriages, divorces, or other public entertainments where a fee is charged, a full and complete notice, including the names of the bride and groom, the date and place of the ceremony, and the names of the officiating minister and the witnesses, will be charged FIVE CENTS A LINE, and hereafter this will be the invariable rule. This, however.

Does Not Include

Notices of Lodge meetings or Church services, which must not exceed ten lines.

Avoidance of Disputes.

Misunderstandings are unpleasant. The rate for Business Leads in THE LEDGER is 10 cents a line for the first insertion and 5 cents a line for subsequent insertions. A customer orders a five-line notice inserted in the paper. "I'll tell you when to take it out," he says to the bookkeeper. But he forgets all about it. The notice runs for two months—25 times—the bill is $12.50. When he finds it out there is a "kink" and a controversy, followed probably by an icy feeling. Now, to obviate this trouble, no "I'll forgo" notices will be accepted hereafter. Let's have a definite agreement at the outset and the termination will be pleasant all around.

All matters for publication must be handed in before 9 o'clock in the morning of each day.

If you have friends visiting you, or if you are going on a visit, please show us a note to that effect.

OR HIS COFFEE.

He cares not a rap
When'er it doth hap
That his wife's cold to him, so they say:
But he raves and he roars
And slam-bangs the doors
If his morning's paucities are that way.

GEORGE and MARTHA.

THEY ENTERTAIN IN ELEGANT STYLE LAST NIGHT.

THE YOUNG LADIES OF THE CENTRAL PRESBYTERIAN AND M. E. CHURCHES TAKE PART.

The young ladies of the Central Presbyterian Church gave a unique and beautiful entertainment last night which drew out a great crush of society people.

The mere announcement of an original idea is sufficient to attract, but when additional features are added, such as tempting things to eat, delightful music and cultivated voices to make melodious with song the air, these are things which are best calculated to bring out all classes of citizens and to send them home in a pleasant frame of mind.

It is not often that such a farce is brought to bear strong enough to swing humanity back 100 years, but when willing hands and sincere hearts attempt this herculean task there must be perforce be presented these charming scenes and picturesque sights which make the past so delightful in literature and which appeal so strongly to the mind of those familiar with the personages of that time.

One can readily understand why there is that drawing power in an entertainment representing a time when, out of the crude conditions of our primeval life, there looms up the chivalry, gallantry, beauty and charm of great men and women, coming down to us upon pages of history with an enticing effect, and causing an imitative desire to spring up, which last night found its full fruition realized.

A reception at the White House is always popular. The levees of the Court are looked forward to by the masses, as at such times only the common herd get a glimpse of their Chief and his official family.

Great preparations had been for days going on at the Executive Mansion. The artist, the painter and the decorator had been busy converting the lower floor into a flower garden of natural and artificial loveliness, so that it is no wonder we see the public flocking to this second levee of General and Mrs. Washington.

The Red Room was the place wherein the people were presented to the States' Executive and his chief functionaries.

Before the doors were thrown open to admit the eager crowd already assembled your reporter was given an opportunity to view the scene.

Truly bewildering in its gorgeousness, sublime as a spectacle, we stand overwhelmed at the dignity, the pomp and glitter which stand servants to this great and good Administration.

President and Mrs. Washington head the line; he of benign, open countenance, every inch great, mighty and princely; she as sweet in manner, as cordial in greeting, while the magnificence of her dress but formed the frame to show forth this embodiment of all virtue—a true and noble woman; the Vice-President and Mrs. Adams occupied the next post of honor, while ranged down the line were the Cabinet and their wives. It can be truthfully said that no more elegant dressing has been seen at a "drawing room" of the Queen—certainly never have been seen so many distinguished and handsomer men nor lovelier or more gracious women.

Colonel Milton A. Edwards was master of ceremonies, introducing all who came to the President and his party in that happy, eloquent way which stamps him as not only an affable, urbane and courtly man, but also the teacher of the school from whence came Chesterfield.

Promptly at 8 the doors were opened and the first to be announced was the Supreme Court. With slow and solemn mien the dignified Judges came in attired in their official toga; then followed in quick succession the army and navy, the diplomatic corps, the officials and high dignitaries, and last the ordinary mortals, which may be those who reside in New York or are drawn there by pleasure. For four hours the line stood receiving the people, and at no time did fatigue or weariness show itself in the conduct of the officials.

During the entire time the sweetest notes of a magnificent pipe organ rolled through the apartments, with an occasional solo, duet or quartette by celebrated singers, giving to the guests that pleasing variety which has characterized the Washington rule.

Dainty edibles, with their environments, exquisitely painted chins, fair damask, cut glass and silver, were put before the company and nothing was left undone which could have added to the enjoyment of anyone.

This levee will go down in history as perfect in every detail.

One feature of the decoration must not be overlooked. Forming as a background to the Presidential party were thirteen beautiful little maidens—living pictures of the thirteen original states—a happy concert and a feature which called forth the loudest enthusiasm from every spectator.

It would be out of place to mention the awful discrepancy which occurred, but the wrong was so palpable as to have been witnessed by all. The custom of tipping the waiters prevailed, and the count afterward among them revealed the neat sum of $88.95.

It must be said, however, in justice to these servants that they immediately turned over the fund to the church, which is the amende honorable, and for which they receive the thanks of the Central Church people.

The "Washington Entertainment" given by the Epworth League yesterday was a pronounced success, as all the League's entertainments are.

The morning service, especially for the old, was a delightful one. The solo by Mrs. Lucy Keith, beautiful and inspiring, also the reading by Miss Bertha E. Ort was rendered well and enjoyed by all.

In the afternoon the little ones were entertained, and all had a fine time.

The "Recognition Party" with old photographs together with a literary program in the evening for the young people, closed a very pleasant day for the Epworth Leaguers and their friends.

John Harrington, charged with bigamy, had a hearing before Squire Bramel yesterday afternoon, and was held in $250, in default of which he was sent to jail.

Mr. John W. Williams and Miss Etha May Allison, a young couple, eloped from Nicholas county last night and were married at the Clerk's Office at an early hour this morning. Judge Hutchins performed the ceremony.

IT WAS A BIG FAKE.

THE CAT AND FOOL FIGHT AT VANCEBURG LAST THURSDAY NIGHT A DISAPPOINTMENT.

The much-advertised combat between Dr. Conner's two big wildcats and Charles Plummer took place at the Opera-house at Vanceburg Thursday night.

The cats were ably seconded by Dr. Conner and Captain Shumate.

Plummer was looked after by Bob Lang and Jerry Bercau.

The cats' timekeeper was William Rusk and Plummer's Bird Bunnell.

The cats wore their customary colors, while Plummer appeared in a tan suit with wire trimmings.

The cage was ten by fifteen feet, with front made of wire screen and sat upon the stage.

Plummer had a baseball mask over his face and he carried a small riding whip in his hand.

The contest was a sore disappointment to the crowd present, which was not as large as expected.

Plummer went in and commenced switching the cats, and they both appeared cowed, and though he was in the cage fully twenty minutes, only once or twice did they pounce upon him.

He came out without a scratch, and got his little $15.

A "CUE" FOR THE PUBLIC.

Helen Barry, the Actress, Finds a Splendid Tonic in Paine's Celery Compound.

The play is done, the curtain drops, slow falling to the prompter's bell; A moment yet the actress stops and looks around to say farewell. It is an irksome word and task, And when she's laughed and said her say, She shows, as she removes her mask, a face that's anything but gay.

Acting is not all gaiety, lights and applause.

There is a deal of drudgery, vexation and he rache that the people in the front of the house little imagine.

Mary Anderson used to advise young stage-struck girls to keep off the stage. The feverish excitement, the late hours, the drudgery of rehearsals, the unnatural stimulus from new audiences, rivalry and applause, make the life full of perils to health of mind and body. The careless theater-going public have no notion of the strain on the nerves that is inseparable from a dramatic career.

But members of "the profession" know what it is, and they have, as a body, learned how best to keep their nervous systems strong and capable of doing the hard work demanded of them. That is why Paine's Celery Compound is so popular on the stage.

Helen Barry, the well known actress, writes to a physician friend from Tea Box Cottage, Bellfort:

"It is with great pleasure I write to tell you that I find Paine's Celery Compound a splendid tonic. I should like you to procure me a few more bottles."

Della Fox, when "run down" from overwork, by the advice of the wife of a

United States Senator in Washington, tried Paine's Celery Compound. She says: "My spirits picked up, and at the end of two weeks the same old exuberant health with which nature blessed me had returned."

"I ate and slept as I had not done since I was a child, and I have never known since then an hour's inconvenience from nervous prostration."

"The medicine to which I owe so much is Paine's Celery Compound, and I have recommended it to all of my stage acquaintances who have overtaxed their brains by too close attention to study, and all have experienced the same happy results as myself."

Marie Tempest also, and a host more of the most eminent artists who appear before the public, have recently testified to the wonderful reinvigorating power of Paine's Celery Compound. Their testimony is noteworthy, because no class of women work harder or are under greater nervous strain.

Women in every walk of life have reason to be grateful to Professor Phelps of Dartmouth, who discovered Paine's Celery Compound. He understood the peculiar weakness of the sex. He knew that the backache, lassitude, headache, sleeplessness and loss of appetite all mean that the supply of nervous force is low and inadequate to the demands upon it. The experience of thousands has taught the women of the country that only Paine's Celery Compound will give health to the nerves and, through them to the entire body.

Smoke Geo. W. Childs's La Tosca Cigar; best cigar on the market; hand-made. Only 5 cents.

Buyers are similar to other people—they like to be asked, and when they see an advertisement in THE LEDGER they naturally regard it as an invitation to call. No one likes to go where he is not invited or wanted.

If you want to buy a home and stop paying rent, or make a safe and profitable investment, call on W. B. Mathews President, C. D. Newell Attorney, James Threlkeld Treasurer, H. C.
